

National Community Summit Creating Secure Jobs & a Better Society

The ACTU is convening the National Community Summit to forge a progressive policy agenda for Australia's future, and build new partnerships between the union movement, the community sector and our leading thinkers.

Weds 13 & Thurs 14 March 2013
Old Parliament House, Canberra.

Millions of Australians no longer have the right to annual leave or sick leave because they are trapped in insecure, casual or contract jobs.

Building successful, strong and equitable communities requires new thinking around our economy, social policy and the future needs of Australia's citizens.

Speakers over the two days will include:

Ged Kearney | ACTU President

Dave Oliver | ACTU Secretary

Professor Brian Howe

former Deputy Prime Minister
Chair of the Independent Inquiry into Insecure Work

Dr Cassandra Goldie

CEO, Australian Council of Social Service

Dr John Falzon

Chief Executive, St Vincent de Paul Society

Professor John Buchanan

Director, Workplace Research Centre
The University of Sydney

National Community
Summit

Creating Secure Jobs &
a Better Society

ACTU
Australian Council of Trade Unions

The Summit will commence at 9am each day | Full agenda available at www.securejobs.org.au in mid-February
Cost: $150 for the two days including dinner on the first evening | Registration opens early February through the ACTU

For further information and early registration email summit@actu.org.au